5	When creating an account, no validation is done to check if the two password fields are the same.	3	Found using functionality test case Account 001, with entering two different passwords in the new password fields
6	Cookies are still messed up after creating a new account	3	Found after generally using website after creating new account and experiencing issues related to invalid cookies
7	When changing the password, you can set the new password to be exactly the same as the old password.	1	Found using functionality test case Account 002, with entering the same password in all three password fields
8	When changing the password, the two new password fields are not validated to check if they have the same password	2	Found using functionality test case Account 002, with entering different passwords in the new password fields
9	When changing the password, the old password is not verified to be correct.	2	Found using functionality test case Account 002, with entering the wrong password in the old password fields
10	Account picture does not work at all	2	Found using functionality test case Account 009
11	Preferred gender does not save the correct preference (It flips your gender you give it)	1	Found using functionality test case Account 005

12	Forgot password is not functional.	2	Found when attempting to use forgot password functionality, it simply did not work at all
13	Remember me does not remember me.	1	Found when attempting to utilize remember-me functionality by loading website after having previously logged in and setting it to use remember me functionality (not talking about normal website cookies)
14	When creating a new account after already being logged in the user information is appended to the old user's cookie	3	Found using functionality test case Account 001 after already logged in
15	For the preferred age range, the minimum age can be higher than the maximum age when creating an account. Crashes the server	2	Found using functionality test case Matching 002
16	A username that is too short says that it is already taken	1	Found using equivalence class test case User 001
17	When creating an account, the server returns an error that says "username is taken" when the password is too short	2	Found using functionality test case Account 001, with entering a too short username
18	Can't correctly bind port. Other computers on the same network can not access the server. This is not a firewall issue.	3	Found when trying to access server from another computer aside from the server host (i.e. trying to interact with website from same network on different computer)
19	Displays Birthday in YY/MM/DD format on user account page when the input was in the MM/DD/YY format on the create account page	1	Found using functionality test case Account 004 and Account 005
20	Displays username and birthday out of order on the account page.	1	Found using functionality test case Account 004
